

MyEscrow supports transactions where payment and delivery do not happen at the same time.

The common need is straightforward: two parties agree on what must happen, funds are held while the obligation is completed, and payment is released only when both parties agree.

SHARED PATTERN

Agree → fund → deliver → release

Use cases vary by transaction size and industry, but each requires clear terms, confirmation from both sides, and a reliable record of what occurred.

HIGH VALUE

CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS

Milestone-based project payments

Owners and general contractors can tie deposits and progress payments to agreed project phases, giving each party visibility before funds are released.

EXAMPLES

- Home-renovation progress draws
- Material delivery and inspection
- Subcontractor milestone payments

COMPLEX FREELANCE SERVICES

Major projects with defined deliverables

Clients fund substantial engagements in stages, while freelancers and agencies gain confidence that payment is available as major deliverables are accepted.

EXAMPLES

- Website or application development
- Brand strategy and design systems
- Commercial photo or video production

DIRECT SALES AND CUSTOM GOODS

Goods with delivery or production risk

Independent sellers can use escrow for made-to-order or substantial purchases, with releases following approval, production, shipment, or inspection.

EXAMPLES

- Custom furniture or jewelry
- Vehicles and specialty equipment
- Specialty goods sold through social media

HIGH VOLUME

PEER-TO-PEER PURCHASES

Used goods bought from an unfamiliar seller

A buyer funds the transaction before an item ships or changes hands, then confirms receipt and condition before payment is released.

EXAMPLES

- Facebook Marketplace purchases
- Used cameras or electronics
- Collectibles and resale items

EVERYDAY FREELANCE SERVICES

Smaller jobs with fast, clear acceptance

Clients fund lower-cost assignments up front, giving freelancers payment assurance while buyers retain control until the agreed work is delivered.

EXAMPLES

- Logo or digital-asset edits
- Copywriting or résumé reviews
- Tutoring or virtual-assistant tasks

EMBEDDED MARKETPLACES

Platforms that need transaction protection

A marketplace can add escrow to its checkout and policy process, keeping funds neutral until buyers and sellers meet the agreed release conditions.

EXAMPLES

- Classifieds and resale marketplaces
- Service-booking platforms
- B2B procurement exchanges
